The roof is made of old bottle caps, with moss underneath them incase of leaks.

The walls are made of pond reeds, and the pond lilies catch rain water to drink. The windows are made of sticks that are tied together with strings.

The door is an old, gutted pocket watch.

The doorbell is a spinning handle that uses rubber bands to turn the dial on the watch, which in turn turns a post on the first gear, which turns all the other gears until it finally turns the cylinder of a music box. The music box plays "I'll Try" from Peter Pan 2.

The handle is made of an acorn cap with a seed for the part you actually grip.

The doormat is a patch of moss, that has clean tin foil placed on it that says "Fly with me".

The clock hands are just decoration.

The sign is bent and painted copper, with a lily pad for the actual sign. On the lily pad is more tin foil that spells out "Mainland Metalwork".
